

It takes energy & creativity to play work by Luca Lombardi & Vito Palumbo...

...and Shell is putting energy & creativity into its business in Italy

With established & growing positions in the most important upstream oil projects and in the competitive retail market, Shell is a leading investor in the energy market in Italy and is a partner for growth in both North and South of Italy.

- Shell brings its technology, its capacity for innovation and expertise of its people to benefit the entire country
- Contributing, through involvement in exploration and production, to value creation in terms of royalties, investment and security of supply
- Providing advanced technical solutions and efficient V-Power fuels to an increasing number of customers
- Partnering with key energy players and engaging Italian people to understand their needs and support their aspirations
- Building a long term performing business in the Italian gas market and in Europe

...is all part of the energy Shell brings to Italy.
